Check out the findings from several studies, which shine a light on what it takes to achieve more in life as cited .According to press reports exercising twice a week may improve thinking ability and memory in people with Mild Cognitive Impairment (MCI), suggests a recent study. Researchers explained that people with MCI have milder symptoms like they struggle to complete complex tasks or have difficulty in understanding information they have read, whereas people with dementia have trouble with daily tasks, such as dressing, bathing and eating. MCI is a medical condition that is common with ageing. While it is linked to problems with thinking ability and memory, it is not the same as dementia. However, there is strong evidence that MCI can lead to dementia. Early action may keep memory problems from getting worse. "If you or others have noticed that you are forgetful and having trouble with complex tasks, you should see your doctor to be evaluated and not assume that it is just part of normal ageing." IT major Infosys has reportedly increased the salary of its top executives but the base scale for entry-level software engineers has not changed for more than five years. for entry-level software engineers with BE and Rs 12-15,000 for entry-level BSc freshers, according to sources. According to experts, starting salaries offered by other IT companies are in the same range. Don't buy things you simply can't afford .If you live above your means, you won't get rich. Even if you start earning more or get a hefty raise, don't use that as a justification to give yourself a lifestyle raise. Work smart and get success. According to financial adviser Ric Edelman, in order to ensure future wealth, you must equally work hard and smart. One way, he suggests, to do that is to invest your money in the stock market or a retirement fund. "You can do this without taking a huge amount of risk, without a lot of effort, and without spending a lot of time.Put emphasis on earning. Another way to work smart? Increase your earnings, not just your savings."The masses are so focused on clipping coupons and living frugally, they miss major opportunities," reportedly said Siebold .There's no need to abandon practical saving strategies. However, if you want to start thinking like the rich, stop worrying about running out of money and focus on how to make more. A common thread among millionaires is that they develop multiple streams of income and adopt smart savings habits.don't be content with a steady paycheck ,Average people choose to get paid based on time -on a steady salary or hourly rate -while rich people choose to get paid based on results and are self-employed."It's not that there aren't world-class performers who punch a time clock for a paycheck. But for most, this is the slowest path to prosperity, promoted as the safest," said Siebold. "The great ones know self employment is the fastest road to wealth."While the world-class continue starting businesses and building fortunes, "The masses almost guarantee themselves a life of financial mediocrity by staying in a job with a modest salary and yearly pay raises," he added.Note that "everyone has the same opportunity to acquire wealth," says self-made millionaire Steve Siebold.But not everyone seizes the opportunity. Be out of your comfort zone if you want to build wealth, be successful, or get ahead in life, you're going to have to get used to uncertainty or discomfort. Overcoming fear and taking calculated risks are the key elements to achieving success."World class thinkers learn early on that becoming a millionaire isn't easy and the need for comfort can be devastating. They learn to be comfortable while operating in a state of ongoing uncertainty," said Siebold. Pursue your own dream.If you want to be successful, you have to love what you do -that means pursuing your passion.Too many people make the mistake of chasing someone else's dream -such as their parents' -explains Thomas C Corley, who spent five years researching self-made millionaires."When you pursue someone else's dreams or goals, you may eventually become unhappy with your chosen profession," he said. "Your performance and compensation will reflect it." One of the most effective ways to earn more money over time is to invest it, and the earlier you start, the better.You don't have to be an expert about personal finance or use fancy economic jargon to start investing. You don't have to come from an affluent family, and you don't even have to earn a massive paycheck. Start by investing in your retirement savings or a low-cost target date fund and you'll see huge returns in the long run.

A case study: According to press reports Saumya Gupta - From Being A Jobless Pilot To Creating A Rs.12 Crore Clothing Company.28 year old Saumya Gupta had dreamt of flying ever since she was a toddler. She attended her nursery interview with an aero plane in her hand! After her 12th grade, she went to the U.S of A to do her pilot's training course and returned to India with aspirations of flying with a commercial airline. This was in 2008 when due to recession, many jobs were lost and recruitment in the airline industry was rather slow. The aviation sector was undergoing a slowdown and getting a job there was a challenge. Saumya shares "I was without a job for almost 15 months. It was a major setback for me mentally as the outside world didn't understand that aviation was undergoing a slowdown and most people believed there was a problem with me as a person or perhaps I was incompetent. My parents were worried as a lot had been invested in my pilot training course & I was still sitting at home". After staying at home for a year, leading the teenager party life, her parents told Saumya that she had to support herself. Reportedly Saumya says "Where ever I applied, I was rejected as I was not even a graduate since I had done my pilot's training course after 12th grade. I took up a job at Talwalkars Gym as a receptionist for Rs.5000/- but couldn't do it for more than 7 days. I let that go & decided to join a call center where the salary was Rs.20000. I had no other option and was happy that finally I got a decent job". The call center job wasn't easy & was nowhere close to what Saumya had dreamt of or aspired for. Working at odd hours in the night and sleeping during the day, against the normal body clock, started taking a toll on her. Saumya says "I was really fed up. I asked my parents if I could get a few garments & sell from home. They immediately agreed & supported my idea. I then bought 30 garments from a garments exporter and set up a small exhibition in my tiny bedroom at home. The clothes were displayed on the bed. We were sold out before the announced date of the exhibition. Many people used to like my personal choice of clothes and style & were looking forward to the clothes I would be selling. They came on early and the stocks were sold out!" Saumya was ready again to get the batch of the next lot of 45 clothes. In the meanwhile, she continued taking calls at night & sold clothes during the day. She needed the capital flowing and hence continued with her job. The next exhibition too was successful and her clothes were sold out completely yet again! Customers started requesting her for customisation. She then started restocking few garments in small boutiques across many cities and started selling under the label "Ten on Ten". Her label became very popular on Facebook and her business idea gathered momentum. When she found some stability in her business and revenues started flowing in, Saumya quit the call center job after a year and registered her company in 2011.
